BECOND DAY OF THE ASSEMBLY OF THE DIPIRTMENT OF OHIO,

Proceedings in Detail-Grand Parade-Formation of the Procession-Great Cro-ds of People Magnificent Display of Fireworks at Night-The Departure o Visiting Posts-Notes.

The, for the general public, gr at event of the encomponent was the parade of veterans in the afternoon. At one o'clock promptly the signal gun notified the posts to fall in at their quarters. At 1:30 a second gun notified posts to take position in their proper the posts to take position in their properties, at divisions, and, with military promptness, at 2:05 the third gun gave the signal to move, which was obeyed on the instant, G-neral Brown and mounted staff sweeping through the gate between crowds of people lining the track. Speaking in general the parade was track. Speaking in general the parace was a grand speciacle, although far less, in the number of marching men, than had been expected. The estimates as to the stream of the column vary from 1.500 to 2.500. Probably 2.000 would be about the figure, and it was noticewould be about the figure, and it was notice-able that nearly as many more in G. A. R. uniform or wearing the badge, stood among the through of spectators on the pavements. At first the marching was very good, the C-lumbus, Zinesville, Dayton, Shelby, Cincin-nati and Springfield posts receiving special artheir soldierly bearing and ap-Atter a time men began dropping pearance. After a time men began dropping out, thus disarranging fours and causing confusion. In some places, also, the mud was an obstruction. The bands were often too close together, making it impossible to preserve the step. There were no especial incidents on the route, which was precisely as published.

Everywhere were great crowds of people, men women and children, and it is probable 30 000 witnessed the marching column. Expense mention should be made of McCov

Post drill corps, the only organized, armed and equipped body of G. A. R. men in the department. The solidity of the corps, the fine appearance of the men, individually, and their efforts to support their character on veterans, made this one of the strong feature of the parade. The three national guard companies, in their regulation dress uni-forms, also acquitted themselves handsomely

As the column countermarched on East High street, several of the posts cheered Mitchell post lustily and were chiered in Someone would call out: "Wnat regiment is that?" and the reply would be inevently: "Same old regiment." At several points ladies came out to the column with pitchess of ice water, which was very gratetul to the beated and thirsty men. som of whom were disposed to criticize the failure of the committee to have water pre-vided at convenient points so route. The Third division, which brought up th ray, consisted of the posts numbered from 151 wards, and was commanded by Colonel aloges H. Neil, of Columbus, instead of Gen gramme. They presented a very fine appear ance. Over 500 men were in line in this division, including the sixty boys from the Obio Soldiers' and Sailers' Orphans' home at Xenia. The boos marched nicely and made a very creditable display. They were comman led by Captain James Liddle, an employe of the institution.

Among all the posts represented in the prrade none pre-ented a better appearance or a fuller turn out then did Granville Thurston post of Lebanon. The organization con-mits of 55 men of whom 50 were present at the encampment. This post claims the largest representation in proportion to mem-bership of any post present. It does not seem to be the intention of the distillers, however, to permit these flaudulent barrels to go eral inspection. These barrels are evidently designed to be u ed for the purpose only of what is called 'dumping' the whisky or carrying it from the distillery to the rectifying establishment. Upon being "dumped" or left at the rectifying establishment the whisky is gauged, and by the use of these barrels the government is defauted. The barrels are returned only to be used again. (n. hundred of these barrels would be sufficient for the use of a large distillery and it would be possible them to de raud the government of perhaps $175 daily.
